June 24, 2010

To: All Local Presidents and Local Editors
Subject: Convention Credentials for Local Newsletter Editors

Dear Colleagues:

As in years past, the CWA Communications Department will issue badges for local newsletter editors and webmasters who are covering the CWA 2010 Convention and Legislative-Political Conference in Washington, D.C., July 26-29.

There will be a special seating area for editors and webmasters with the proper credentials, and a media/editors workroom will also be available.

Each CWA local that publishes a newsletter in print and/or online may register one editor and one webmaster. Each person must be designated by the local president using the attached application for credentials. Further, for editors, the application must be returned with a copy of the most recent published newsletter. For webmasters, the application must provide a link to a homepage or news page where recent, local news items are posted. Badges will only be issued if these requirements are met.

The local editor/webmaster badge does not replace the regular convention badge (Delegate, Guest, etc.) for access to the delegates' seating area. It must be worn along with the regular convention badge to allow access to the editors' area.

Please complete and return the attached application by July 12. Local editors and webmasters should register and pick up their badges at Guest Registration in the convention hall at the Washington Hilton when registration opens Sunday, July 27.
